Other than funding, rank the barriers that exist in your community that contribute to impeding meaningful access to sexual assault services to underserved communities. Drag and drop the following choices in order of highest barrier, with your highest barrier choice in the first position. The ranking numbers will dynamically adjust each time you drag and drop a choice to a barrier order . You may use the Other 1, 2, and 3 to add additional barriers. You can describe the Other barriers in Q9. If you do not want to use one or more of the Other categories, drag and drop these to the lowest position(s).

Please provide a brief description of the Other barriers ranked above (you may enter N/A) lack of disability-appropriate peer-based services

Assistance to survivors in homeless camps.
Understanding people with hidden disabilities
Lack of mental health services. The extended (2-4 months) wait time to start counseling at Jackson County Mental Health puts the survivor in additional danger and without mental health treatment it is often difficult and sometimes impossible for the survivor to get the most from services advocates can provide.
Assistance to survivors in the mental health system.
Lack of understanding of people with mental/emotional disabilities
Lack of housing for female with no children
Lack of bilingual bicultural support staff at court system

Please provide any additional details regarding the access barriers underserved survivors of sexual assault experience in your community.

Lack of support- Isolation
Technology is easily accessible to people or about people with disabilities
Lack of resources for Spanish speaking clients to have materials (such as legal and medical) translated. We have two outreach Spanish speaking staff, however the need is far greater than we are able to handle, because of other advocacy work. There are very few options for survivors with serious physical and/or mental disabilities. As a result they are in vulnerable situations and are at higher risk of additional assaults. The deaf community is very small in our area, and it takes a great deal of time and resources to develop trust among them. This creates a barrier, and also in many instances the abuse is occurring with another person in their community. So the survivor does not want to report the abuse.
Translation has been an issue in providing services and finding resources for victims, many fear they or their family will be deported and do not like to engage law enforcement or the justice system
Depending on the victim, the order of the barriers could look very different. There are LGBTQ people who don't speak English who may experience language as their utmost barrier. A trans survivor would have different barriers than an individual who is gay or lesbian. There are LGBTQ individuals that live in poverty and some that are middle class. It is almost impossible to do a broad categorization of barriers.
Language barriers and financial barriers are the most consistent barriers.
Lack of funding for cultural Specific agencies, to provide services to monolingual Spanish speakers participants.
